Corey Moomaw is an Of Counsel attorney whose practice focuses on tax and estate planning, with an emphasis on helping clients preserve wealth, plan for succession, and navigate complex tax considerations. He works closely with individuals, families, and business owners to develop practical, forward-looking strategies that align with both business and personal goals.

Corey advises on income, gift, and estate tax planning, with significant experience serving farms, ranches, family businesses, and tax-exempt organizations. Drawing on his background in taxation, finance, business operations, and agriculture, he takes a comprehensive approach to structuring plans that maximize value while ensuring long-term continuity.

Clients value Corey's ability to translate complex tax concepts into clear, actionable guidance. He is particularly skilled at designing succession plans that protect generational assets while minimizing tax exposure and administrative burden.

He remains actively involved in the legal and local community, including leadership within the Wichita Bar Association's Probate and Estate Planning Committee. Corey has been recognized by peers for his work in trusts and estates and tax law and is committed to helping clients navigate both everyday planning needs and complex transitions with confidence.
