Welfare Benefit Plans Offer Advantages To Employers and Employees

Welfare benefit plans provide employers with important tools for employee recruitment, retention, and performance. Cafeteria plans allow employers to offer their employees a choice in the benefits they receive while also allowing employees to pay their share of the cost on a pre-tax basis. This results in considerable savings to employees at a relatively low cost to the employer.

The attorneys at Hinkle Law Firm LLC have extensive experience in preparing plan documents for welfare benefit plans and cafeteria plans. Under federal law, employers who offer these benefits to their employees are required to have a written plan document (usually something other than an insurance policy or contract).

Because we practice in all areas of employee benefits law, we can keep our clients abreast of the everchanging rules and regulations pertaining to welfare benefit plans, thus ensuring they remain in compliance with local, state, and federal laws. This broad expertise sets us apart and allows us to meet the needs of any employer, whether it be a large corporation or a small “mom and pop” business.

Plan Documents

We draft plan documents for all types of welfare benefit plans, including:

- Educational assistance plans
- Health reimbursement arrangements

We provide the plan documents and other supplemental material so that employers remain in compliance with the complex maze of ever changing rules and regulations. Importantly, the plan documents we draft ensure the employer's right to amend or terminate the plan, as may be required.

As part of our plan drafting package, we provide the following documents necessary to comply with the laws governing employee welfare benefit plans:

- Plan document in compliance with ERISA and the Internal Revenue Code
- Summary plan description
- Benefit election and salary reduction forms
- Change in family status forms
- COBRA Initial Notice
- COBRA "reasonable" procedures
- QMCSO procedures

In addition, we prepare the following on an as-needed basis:

- HIPAA medical privacy notice
- HIPAA medical privacy policies and procedures
- Voluntary Employee Benefit Association (VEBA)
- COBRA election notice

Ongoing Support

With ever-changing rules regarding welfare benefit plans – health care reform is just the latest example – and with your plan documents in place, our attorneys are available on an ongoing basis to answer any questions you may have regarding your welfare benefit plans. A hallmark of our practice is our dedication to promptly respond to inquiries and resolve problems. We can support employers in many ways, including the following:

- Legal review of Qualified Medical Child Support Orders (QMCSO)
- Legal review of administrative services agreements
- Legal review of insurance policies to ensure compliance with all applicable laws:
- ADA
- FMLA
- Title VII
- ADEA
- USERRA compliance
- HIPAA compliance
- Medical privacy and security compliance
- HIPAA breach rules under HITECH
- Policies and procedures
- State discrimination laws
- COBRA compliance, including notices and election forms:
- Initial COBRA notice to employee and spouse
- COBRA Procedures
- COBRA notice and election forms upon the occurrence of a qualifying event
- Consultation with employer and insurance company, if any, to ensure COBRA compliance
- Monitoring case law interpretation of COBRA mandates
- State continuation of coverage compliance
